

IRISH DEPORTEES AT BOW STREET: STORY OF PLOT

The Daily Mirror

NET SALE MUCH THE LARGEST OF ANY DAILY PICTURE NEWSPAPER

No. 6,106.

Registered at the G.P.O.
as a Newspaper.

THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1923.

One Penny.

SINGER M.P.?

Dame Nellie Melba, the famous prima donna, may shortly become a parliamentary candidate. She admitted yesterday the suggestion had been made, but she could say nothing more at present.

IMPORTANT TRIAL OF LORD—

The Hon. Mrs. George Lambton (left), her husband and Lady Victoria Bullock at the trial.

FIRST COURT OF THE SEASON

Miss Sylvia Lathrop, who is of a well-known San Francisco family, was presented.

Miss Kathleen Bowne Gelshenen, a charming American, who was presented last night.

Miss C. Connolly, daughter of Sir J. Connolly, Agent-General for Western Australia, and——her sister, Miss Veronica Connolly, two of many charming debutantes.

Miss Anna Hamlin, of Washington, U.S.A., who was presented by Mrs. Post Wheeler.

White or white and silver were the predominant hues of gowns at last night's brilliant function—their Majesties first Court of the season—in the Throne-room of Buckingham Palace.

DERBY'S HORSES: TRANQUIL NOW FOR OAKS—AND PHAROS FOR THE DERBY

The finish of yesterday's important Derby trial. Silurian beat Pharos by a neck. Tranquil was third, two lengths away.

An important trial of Lord Derby's horses Pharos and Tranquil was held at Newmarket yesterday, the two three-year-olds being run against the four-year-old Silurian. As the result, it is stated, Pharos will be run in the Derby and, if all goes well with him, Tranquil will be kept for the Oaks.

Pharos, with Weston in the saddle, photographed just before the trial.

DAZZLE GOWNS AT FIRST COURT.

700 Guests at Palace U.S. Presentations.

DIPLOMATS' NIGHT.

Debutantes Wear Colours—The Queen's Dress.

Seven hundred people attended last night the first evening Court of the season at Buckingham Palace.

It was "Diplomats' Night," and the blaze of foreign decorations, the dazzling rocks and the splendidly dressed, gay procession formed scenes of great brilliance.

Lace and tissue were in rivalry for favour. The Queen wore a lovely gown of lace, silver and gold. Americans were prominent among the presentations.

Debutantes, among whom was the Premier's daughter, for the first time were permitted to wear coloured frocks.

LACE AND TISSUE COURT

Blaze of Foreign Decorations—Premier's Daughter Presented.

By Our Woman Reporter.

The smallest royal circle for some time occupied the Throne Room at Buckingham Palace last night, but this did not detract in the least from the splendour of the old-world ceremony: the gorgeous uniforms of the Household, the impressive royal procession, the blaze of foreign decorations—since it was "Diplomats' Night"—and the beauty of filmy gowns of lace mingled with the sheen of the new-woven tissues put the glories of the state apartments quite in the shade.

It was a lace Court—but lace mingled with all the loveliest of the new softly woven tissues and fragrances in the case of the younger women, and with brocades in the case of the dowagers.

Contrary to expectations, greens were not many, peach colour and the palest of pinks mingling with silvers and affording a welcome relief to the all-pervading blues of recent wednings.

Wristlets were many, fans more than ever, enormous, bouquets fewer than was expected.

THE QUEEN'S LOVELY GOWN.

Seldom has the Queen looked more lovely or more impressive than she did last night. Her gown, with swathed waist and short sleeves of lace, was of silver and gold tissue lace, slightly draped on the right side, while the end of the broad blue train of the skirt fell in folds, decorated with pearls and diamonds, while the very long train of English brocade, also of silver and gold, was draped with old point de Elandres lace. A diamond bracelet clasped her right wrist, and she wore an all-round crown of diamonds on her silvery hair.

The most interesting presentation was that of the Hon. Mrs. Arthur Newbold, presented by Mr. Sir Henry Baldwin, The Prime Minister's wife wore a gown of gold tissue, its train decorated with very lovely cream lace, while her daughter, presented on her marriage, had chosen a Pheasant gown of white and silver brocade caught up in front with an ornament of crystal and silver to give an Egyptian effect. Her train was of clear white tulle edged with silver.

Perhaps the most startling frock was that of Mrs. Asquith, who wore a gown of peach-coloured brocade made after a fifteenth century Russian style. Mrs. Lloyd George was a contrast.

Mrs. Post Wheeler, who, in the absence of Mrs. Harvey in America, presented twenty-four Americans, had also chosen peach colour—in satin with drapings and train of wonderful Venetian lace.

MORE FANS THAN FLOWERS.

The most interesting debutante was the Lady Rachel Howard in a very simple silver tissue frock, the tulle train lined with shell-pink chiffon and some posies of pink at the waist.

There were more fans than flowers among the English, but most of the Americans carried bouquets.

The Marchioness Curzon, who had a long list of presentations in her capacity as wife of the Foreign Secretary, looked very beautiful in a golden frock draped with fine creamy lace, with one of the new two-pointed trains, and carried flowers.

The Duchess of Devonshire wore some remarkable diamond ornaments on her cream-and-gold brocade gown with heavy train, and Lady Rachel Cavendish looked very attractive in shell pink with a train of ciré silver lace edged with a double frill of shell pink chiffon, barely visible under the lace.

WAR ON KU KLUX KLAN.

Fresh Measures To Be Taken, Says Governor, Who Will Enforce Law.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

Governor Smith intimates that fresh measures will be taken against the Ku Klux Klan on account of their refusal to deliver up a list-of-their members.

He is determined, he says, to see that the law is rigidly enforced.—Central News.

BRITONS BARRED.

First-Class Passengers Unable to Land in U.S.

WOMEN'S ORDEAL.

Six British first-class cabin passengers were refused permission to disembark from the liner President Monroe on her arrival at New York on Tuesday, says Reuter, because England's immigration quota is filled.

The names of the passengers are: Mrs. Ada Thomas and her two daughters; Mrs. Alice Robertson, Mrs. Elise Demitron, and a fifteen-year-old boy.

Mrs. Demitron's husband, who is an American, was unable to meet her. Mrs. Thomas was coming to join her husband in Wisconsin.

All the passengers were taken to Ellis Island, where a special board of inquiry is to decide whether they shall be ultimately admitted.

Mrs. Ada Thomas, of 8, Upper Church-street, Chelstow, Monmouthshire, was travelling with her two young daughters, Ivy and Edith.

Mrs. Alice Robertson had been at 25, Down-road, Nottingham, and Mrs. Elise Demitron at 27, Barnet-road, Stoke Newington.

Under the American immigration laws only a certain number of English people who wish to stay in that country longer than six months may enter the United States every month.

English shipping lines receive full instructions as to how many can enter America each month, and if there are too many the shipping companies have to assume full responsibility for their return.

WILL OF 292 FOLIOS.

£280,000 Death Duties on Millionaire Sportsman's Estate.

Death duties amounting to £380,000 will be paid on the £1,229,482 left by Mr. Frank Bibby, the famous shipowner and sportsman, who twice won the Grand National. The net personalty amounts to nearly £900,000.

His will consisted of 292 volumes.

To his wife he left the choice of either of his two residences, Hardwick Grange or Sansaw, his racehorses, and an annuity of £15,000.

The great bulk of his property passes to his son, Mr. Frank Bibby, the horse owner, and the person inheriting the settled property is to assume the name of Bibby. Mr. B. W. Leader, R.A., the landscape painter, left £26,000.

Mr. Frank Bibby.

VICEROY'S NOVEL FETE.

800 Guests at Fancy Dress Moonlight Party—100 Year Old Uniforms.

Lord and Lady Reading gave a novel moonlight fete to 900 guests in fancy dress at the Viceregal Lodge, Simla, on Tuesday night.

The Viceroy himself was in evening dress with Orders, states Reuter, but the Viceregal staff wore uniforms 100 years ago.

General Lord Rawlinson, the Commander-in-Chief, and Lady Rawlinson and their staff were disguised in dominoes.

The beautiful terraced flower gardens and lawns were brilliantly lighted with thousands of coloured and electric lights, presenting an Arabian Night-like scene. The amusements included dancing in the open air, a maze, a chute and numerous side-shows.

COAT SLASHER AGAIN.

Girl's Costume Ripped in the Strand—Second Case This Week.

Miss Doris Wilson, of Seymour-road, Harringay, is the latest victim of the clothes-slasher.

She stood outside the Strand Corner House in a crowd for a few minutes, and then boarded a West-bound omnibus. Immediately she sat down she discovered that her costume coat had been ripped open from the waist downwards.

This is the second case of clothes slashing this week, the previous victim being a young woman from Turnham Green, whose skirt was slashed in the Leicester-square Tube lift.

FRENCH ACE KILLED.

Airman Who Brought Down 21 Planes in War Crashes.

PARIS, Wednesday.

Mr. Deulin, one of the French Aces of the war, who destroyed twenty-one enemy aeroplanes, was killed yesterday at Villa Coublay.

He was making a flight in a new aeroplane and was going at a great speed when he crashed.

—Central News.

BLAZING CAR MYSTERY SOLVED.

The mystery of the touring car found in flames in a pond at Swanwick (Hants) which had been unsolved. The driver, Frederick Hurford, failed to get assistance after the accident and returned to Portsmouth.

£3,000 A YEAR WIFE.

Divorce Ends Wealthy Man's War Romance.

"WANTED A GAYER LIFE."

The war romance of a wealthy man who married a reception clerk at a York hotel and allowed her a motor-car and £3,000 a year came to an end in the Divorce Court yesterday, when Mr. Christopher Brooke Warner was granted a decree nisi against his wife Gertrude, who, he alleged, had committed misconduct with John Smith, an electrical engineer.

Mr. Warner, 42, his wife, 26, had been a hotel clerk at York, where he was on war service.

When demobilised he took a large house at Malton, near York.

Mr. Cotes Preedy: I think you allowed your wife a motor-car and £3,000 a year?—Yes.

But after a time she wanted a gayer life than you deserved?—Yes.

Quarrels followed, and in March, 1920, adored petitioner, they entered into a deed of separation under which his wife received an allowance of £1,000 a year free of income tax.

THREE M.P.s APOLOGISE.

Mr. Newbold's Suspension Lifted on Motion of Mr. Baldwin.

The House of Commons was yesterday treated to the unusual spectacle of having three apologies from members within about as many minutes.

The suspension of Mr. Newbold, Motherwell's Communist M.P., was removed after the Prime Minister, as Leader of the House, had stated that he had received an ample and complete apology from Mr. Newbold.

The Mr. Sexton apologised for his "unpleasant language" of the day before, and Mr. Watts Morgan explained at length why he had found it necessary to interrupt a speech by the Home Secretary.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Dignified Titles for Your Breakfast Milk—Three Grades.

"A milch cow is a cow kept for milking purposes."

The starting statement, which is calculated to draw indignant demands from dairy farmers and other milk producers, including infants—is made by the Ministry of Health in their Milk (Special Designations) Order, 1923.

Further, states this illuminating epistle, a dealer is a person who "sells milk wholesale or retail," and when such an individual "sells," to use the lofty, but efficient, phrase of the Health Ministry, "he offers or exposes for sale, and 'sells' is not to be understood."

There are no four classes of milk, namely, "grade A," "grade B" (a (honeycomb tested), "grade C," this apparently, abstains from the ordeal of a test), and "pasteurised."

HER "FANCY TITLE."

Decree Nisi for Officer Whose Wife Posed as Countess.

A marquis and the wife of an English officer, who was stated to have passed herself off as a "countess," figured in the Divorce Court yesterday.

Captain John Nethersole, of the Indian Army, sued for the divorce of his marriage with his second wife, Mrs. Sormani Andreani, on the ground of her misconduct with a co-respondent named Sarowitch. A second co-respondent was cited who was referred to in the hearing as the Marquis de Santini.

Mr. Lee Burton Feeny said he went to a villa near Trouville in September, 1922, and was received by a lady who said she was Countess Nethersole.

Mr. Barnard: It was simply a fancy name she gave herself.

Mr. Justice Hill said the wife had confessed that she had been living with Sarowitch, and he therefore granted a decree nisi. He did not think there was sufficient evidence against Santini.

—Central News.

PRINCESS POCAHONTAS.

Grave Opened by Home Office Order at Gravesend—No Body Found.

Early yesterday the grave in which, according to legend, Princess Pocahontas was buried in 1617 was opened by Home Office order with the object of discovering if the remains were actually there.

It is stated that no remains have been found.

It was recently announced that Americans wish to remove the body of the Princess from Gravesend.

—Central News.

LATER BROADCASTING.

Many requests having been received for a later start of the broadcasting collecting radiated by the London station, arrangements were made for beginning at 5.30 p.m. instead of 5 o'clock as before. The change comes into force on June 1, when the concert will take place at 5.30 p.m. to 7.30 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

GIVE THE DOG HIS DUE.

Flood of Protests Against High Railway Fares.

BREEDERS HIT.

Unable to Attend 50 per Cent. of Shows.

Letters and messages of protest against the high and unfair rates which the railway companies are still charging for the conveyance of dogs continue to reach the office of The Daily Mirror.

These protests are not confined to the general public alone, but come from officials of almost all the great dog associations and from responsible members of societies engaged in looking after the welfare of animals.

Notwithstanding an all-round reduction in railway passenger fares and other rates, the companies still require 75 per cent. more than they did in pre-war days to carry a dog.

It makes no difference whether the dog is accompanied by the owner or whether it is chained and muzzled and carried in the guard's van—the charge is exactly the same.

"LIVE STOCK."

Companies Who Class Pedigree Dogs with Other Animals.

There is little doubt, that for some reason several of the companies are disposed to discourage the travelling of dogs by train.

At present dogs are only allowed to travel in a passenger compartment by permission of the guard, after that official has satisfied himself that the other occupants of the compartment offer no objection.

Some companies, however, definitely prohibit dogs from entering an ordinary compartment.

"The railway companies seem to be utterly indifferent to the question of dog travel as a source of revenue," said Mr. H. T. Bowell, secretary of the Kennel Club, to The Daily Mirror yesterday.

"Possibly they are shabby about letting dogs travel in passenger compartments, but there is little need for them to be."

"Of recent years the pedigree dog industry has come into a place of its own in this country," he continued, "and our activities are very much hampered by the attitude which we are treated by the railway companies."

"They say they will not be common carriers of livestock, and in this spirit they entirely overlook the pedigree dog. Before the war the Kennel Club registered about 20,000 fresh dogs each year."

INCREASING FIGURES.

"In 1922 the number was 30,000, while the figures for 1923 will be nearer 40,000. In the ordinary way each of these dogs would travel many miles by rail from show to show during a year, because its value is increased each time it is exhibited."

"The present high rates compel exhibitors to restrict their travelling as much as possible."

Miss Desborough, secretary of the Ladies' Kennel Association, said that exhibitors living in remote parts of the British Isles are either giving shows a complete miss or are bringing one or perhaps two dogs, which they have been accustomed to bring half a dozen.

"There are well over fifty championship dog shows in this country in a year," continued Miss Desborough, "and people who never sent less than two dogs to each show are obliged by the present excessive fares to be unrepresented at half of them."

"Before the 75 per cent. increase on dog-ticket charges such a thing as missing a championship show was unheard of."

OTHER NEWS IN BRIEF.

Weather Forecast.—Rain later in the South; in other districts cool. Lighting-up time 10.30 p.m.

New Recorder.—Mr. R. E. Dunnett has been appointed Recorder of Barnstaple and Bideford.

Murderers of Mrs. Ellis.—The murderers of Mrs. Ellis have found refuge in Shimwari territory near Sangu Khel.—Reuter.

Barrister Candidate.—Blyth engineers are nominating Mr. Turner Sambules, barrister, as Labour candidate for Morpeth by-election.

On the Dole.—The Jarow medical officer reports that 13,000 out of the 36,000 population are receiving poor law relief and 4,000 adults are on the dole.

Louth Disaster Obelisk.—On the third anniversary of Louth flood disaster a marble obelisk was unveiled bearing the names of the twenty-three victims.

High Prices for Kiplings.—At Sotheby's yesterday a copy of Kipling's schoolboy lyrics printed in "Limerick Tales" fetched £228 and a first edition of "Puck of Pook's Hill" £98.

Morid Burglar.—Lack of employment and morbid sniffling was the excuse of Arthur Smith (twenty-seven), sentenced at the Old Bailey yesterday to three years' penal servitude for burglaries.

NINE DEPORTEES CHARGED—CROWN STORY OF PLOT

"O.C. Newcastle" and Other I.R.A. Officers Join Art O'Brien at Bow Street.

SECRET OF "STUFF" IN SEIZED DOCUMENTS

Counsel's Statement That High Explosives and Guns Were Supplied to Companies.

Nine Irish deportees, including Mr. Art O'Brien, appeared at Bow-street yesterday to answer a charge of seditious conspiracy. They were remanded till to-day.

Counsel for the Crown unfolded the story of an alleged plot to overthrow the Irish Free State. Joyce, Mullarkey and Flynn, he declared, were officers of the I.R.A. in England and were engaged in the same conspiracy as O'Brien, McGrath, O'Mahoney and Galvin.

References in seized documents to "stuff" meant, said Mr. Travers Humphreys, high explosives, fuses, powder, etc. Various companies of the I.R.A. possessed it. One company had three guns.

Evidence was given of the discovery at McGrath's room of formulae for the manufacture of nitro-glycerine, dynamite and cordite.

TALE OF EXPLOSIVES FOR THE PRINCE'S REPLY TO I.R.A. COMPANIES.

Counsel on Effort to Conceal Correspondence.

RORY O'CONNOR LETTER.

The nine Irish deportees charged at Bow-street yesterday with seditious conspiracy were Art O'Brien, president of the Irish Self-Determination League; Sean O'Mahoney, Sean McGrath, Michael Galvin, a schoolmaster at Greenwich; Thomas Joyce, Jarrow; Anthony Mullarkey, of Bedlington; Thomas Flynn, of South Shields; Patrick Fleming and Dennis Fleming.

Mr. Travers Humphreys, prosecuting, said the charge against all the defendants was one of having been parties to a conspiracy by force to compel a change in the constitution of the Free State of Ireland.

Joyce was treasurer of No. 94 branch of the Irish Self-Determination League and adjutant of one of the companies in the Republican Army.

Mullarkey was the "O.C. Newcastle," and in connection with the documents found it would be seen that the parties, although they said they made out the case for the Crown, had by a legal transaction, took steps to prevent persons going through their correspondence and documents. The directions seem to have been to have them addressed to a "Miss Brooks."

WHAT "STUFF" MEANT.

Flynn, said counsel, seemed to have held the position of quartermaster of No. 94 arm of the Irish Republican Army, which had its headquarters at South Shields. In his possession was found an acting quartermaster's report book, and under the heading "Stuff" it was found that "stuff" according to this gentleman meant high explosives, fuses, detonators, powder, etc. An amount of "stuff" was possessed by various companies of the battalion.

The "B" Company was said to have no "stuff" at all, and that the "stuff" documents found on Flynn recorded the purchase of explosives, ammunition and revolvers.

Upon Fleming similar documents were found.

Inspector Daniel O'Donnell, of the Special Branch, Scotland Yard, said that at Woolwich O'Mahoney declared there were people who had violated their oath to the Irish Republic. If there was any one there who had done so he

McGrath at Birmingham was alleged to have urged an audience to "Carry on with their propaganda and enable the Irish people to get the Republic they longed for."

FORMULA FOR EXPLOSIVES.

P.S. Smith, who searched the room occupied by McGrath, at Rochester-terrace, said he found a pocket-book which contained references to fuses and detonators, a statement regarding the amount of gun-cotton required to blow up a masonry arch.

On certain pages there were the formulae for the manufacture of nitro-glycerine, dynamite, cordite, etc., and instructions for bomb-making. P.S. Wilson stated that at the room occupied by Flynn he found what, what was called "Battalion Q.M. Report Book," which reported the income and expenditure of the battalion and the holding of the battalion councils at Newcastle.

Liverpool police, giving evidence against the two defendants Fleming, stated that in their bedroom was a letter from "G.H.Q., Dublin," signed by Rory O'Connor, asking that a statement attached be read on parade, and every man must then decide whether he would continue in the Republican Army or not.

THE PRINCE'S REPLY TO A MOTHER'S APPEAL.

Promise to Help Her All He Can.

BRADFORD'S WELCOME.

A woman who had lost her son in the war asked the Prince of Wales when he visited a Bradford wool combing works yesterday if he would help her to obtain a pension.

The Prince made a note of the woman's name, which was Leeder, and her address, and promised to do what he could.

It was the Prince's first visit to Bradford, and he was greeted by real Yorkshire cheers from a real Yorkshire crowd.

During a comprehensive tour of the institutions and workshops of the city he was accompanied by the Earl and Countess of Harewood, Rear-Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey and Captain Lascelles.

The Prince left the home of his hosts shortly before ten o'clock, and while passing through Otley his car ran over a dog.

All along the route to Bradford the Prince found evidence of the popularity of his visit. Arriving at the new workshops of the Royal Institution for the Blind, he was met by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of Bradford.

The Prince conversed with several blinded Service men.

"And how are you getting along," the Prince asked one man whom he had seen at St. Dunstan's. "I hope you are finding plenty of work."

LINKS WITH DOMINIONS.

The Prince went to Lister Park to listen to the singing of patriotic airs by over 2,000 schoolchildren.

Repeating the address of welcome one who "like myself has spent much time in the Dominions, there is a special interest in a visit to your city. The links between Bradford and some of those Dominions are close and important."

"It has been my privilege to see some of the raw material on the other side of the world waiting to be shipped to England, and to-day I hope to see how the industry and technical skill for which Bradford has long been celebrated transform this into the finished product."

The Yorkshireman, in a wool-combing works, brought a smile to the Prince's face.

Later the Prince opened a new road constructed by ex-Service men.

LOOK THAT CAUSED PAIN.

Hypnotised Woman Reveals Secret of Ache in Her Shoulder.

A remarkable story of a look which caused pain was related by Dr. Crichton Miller to the International Conference of Day Nurseries in London yesterday.

Dr. Miller spoke of a patient of his who had an inexplicable pain in her shoulder. He hypnotised her and found that, before she was three years of age, her mother used not to reprove her but to open her eyes wide as though in surprise.

This look always caused the pain, which had lasted all through life, when the woman was under stress of emotion.

RUHR STRIKE COLLAPSE.

The strike movement in the Ruhr is on the wane, the new wage agreement apparently satisfying even the Communists, says a Reuter Berlin telegram. A general resumption of work is expected.

Mr. Justice Darling was unable owing to illness to take his seat at the Old Bailey yesterday. Marshal Pilsudski, Chief of the Polish State, his delegation was reported yesterday from Warsaw.

DAME NELLIE MELBA TO STAND FOR PARLIAMENT?

"I Can Speak Well and I Have Brains."

WILLING TO BE AN M.P.

Dame Nellie Melba, the celebrated prima donna, may shortly stand for Parliament.

She told The Daily Mirror yesterday that it was too early to say anything definite.

"For the last six weeks I have had a very bad time and am just recovering from a serious operation," Dame Melba added. "All I am thinking about at present is my health, and hoping that I shall be able to sing at my best on Friday."

"It has been suggested that I might stand for Parliament, and I will admit I am not opposed to the idea."

"After all, I can speak well, and I have a few brains, you know."

Dame Melba is to appear before the King and Queen in "La Bohème" at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, to-morrow night.

NEW GERMAN OFFER.

Expected to Reach Allies Early Next Week.

That the new German offer on reparations will be formally handed to the Allies early next week was confidently predicted in well-informed quarters yesterday.

If it is regarded as offering a basis for negotiations an Allied conference will take place with the least possible delay.

The date, however, will entirely depend upon the attitude taken by the French Government.

According to the Berlin correspondent of the Paris Journal, Germany will renew her proposal to make a payment of a definite sum of thirty million dollars gold marks and will ask for a moratorium of four years.

She will arrange a certain number of yearly payments the totals of which will not be fixed in advance. The first of these, payable at the maturity of the moratorium, will be more than a billion gold marks.

The Premier presided yesterday morning at the first fully attended meeting of the Cabinet at 10, Downing-street.

SALARIES OVERPAID.

Leyton Teachers Ordered to Refund
More Than £7,000.

London teachers will have to refund over £7,000 paid to them in excess of their salaries.

Sitting to a late hour on Tuesday night, the Urban District Council, after a considerable majority, decided that the teachers should be required to refund the amount, which is three-fifths of the salaries in excess of the amount allowed by the Board of Education, which was paid to them in 1921, 1922, and for the year 1922-23 if there is any amount in excess of grant.

Concillor Heather moved an amendment that the amount should be sent, not as a demand, but as a gift, to the council until a final settlement is made.

"You must," he said, "it would not be right to all further conferences with the teachers."

Eventually the recommendation of the Education Committee to require the refund was carried.

JANE FOR SHORT."

Mrs. Anna Ursula Agatha Juana Craven Simons asked in the Divorce Court yesterday for a restoration decree against her husband, Aloysius Gabriel Jose Maria Ewart Walter Simons. In a letter Mr. Simons called his wife "Jane for short." His Lordship made an order for the plaintiff to return to his wife in fourteen days.

PRINCESS CHRISTIAN ILL.

Princess Christian has had a heart attack following influenza, and a medical bulletin states that her condition causes anxiety.

SLEEPING BOYS SAVED FROM FIRE.

Plucky Rescue by Schoolmaster in Gas Mask.

110 ESCAPE.

Night Dash from a Blazing Building.

One hundred and ten schoolboys had a wonderful escape early yesterday, when Winton House Preparatory School, on the outskirts of Winchester, was destroyed by fire.

The boys were aroused when the fire was discovered, and all but five of them rushed into the grounds clad only in night attire.

When the roll call showed that five boys still remained in the school, a master dashed into the burning building wearing a gas mask, and rescued one boy, who was still sleeping on the top floor.

Another boy, W. E. Mitchell-Innes, of Minehead, pluckily rescued a boy named Mark, whom he carried out in a semi-conscious condition.

Three other boys were cut off from escape by dense smoke, but they had the presence of mind to get wet sponges and, covering their mouths, make a dash through the corridor.

ALARM GIVEN BY BOY.

The fire was discovered when a boy, F. V. Leyland, was awakened by smoke and rushed to the matron's room to give the alarm.

The flames spread alarmingly, and it was not long before the whole school—a large two-story building standing in its own grounds—was a mass of fire.

Winchester fire brigade was called and found flames leaping 40ft. above the roof. After several hours the fire was got under control.

All the boys showed wonderful calm. Several tried to save their personal belongings. The majority lost practically all their clothing, and one boy was left with nothing but the pyjamas in which he escaped.

The school, an old private residence, has been used for its present purpose about eighty years. It is thought that the fire was caused by the fusing of an electric wire.

Believe to have been caused by an electric wire fusing, a fire destroyed the upper story of the mansion in the centre of Orwell Park, the Ipswich home of Captain E. G. Pretymen, M.P., yesterday.

A telephone message was sent to Mr. George Pretymen, Captain Pretymen's eldest son, at Felixstowe, and he returned and assisted the staff in moving the priceless pictures in the art gallery to a place of safety.

STREET IN PERIL.

Terrifying Night for People Living Near Blazing Tannery.

People living in the small houses adjoining the works of the Vauxhall Tanning Company, Eccles-street, Liverpool, had a terrifying experience on Tuesday night, when a fierce fire broke out at the tannery.

Some of them stood in their night clothes at their front doors, watching the flames and wondering anxiously what would happen next.

The flames were discovered by a watchman in the leather-drying room, where a large quantity of leather and other materials soaked in oil were stored. The flames spread rapidly, and about five yards of the block extending from Vauxhall-road down Eccles-street were damaged.

Two large mills in the Ayrshire manufacturing town of Newmills caught fire yesterday, and the damage is estimated at £100,000. Five hundred workers will be thrown idle.

Four million Christmas crackers exploded yesterday morning in a Shoreditch warehouse.

WOMAN SHOT IN HOSPITAL.

Husband Falls at Wife's Bedside with Wound Near His Heart.

A tragic shooting affair took place in New-castle Maternity Hospital where Kenneth Gibson, 28, a commercial traveller, is alleged to have shot his wife Blanche, aged 22, and then to have shot himself.

Gibson visited his wife in hospital and when leaving and in the act of embracing her is alleged to have placed the revolver to her breast and fired. The bullet entered her lung.

Another bullet rang out and Gibson fell wounded at the bedside. The bullet passed two inches from Gibson's heart and has not been located.

Both husband and wife lie in a dangerous state.

Many patients and visitors were in the ward at the time.

£500 FOR ELECTION LIBEL.

Damages of £500 were awarded in the King's Bench Division yesterday to Mr. Charles Norrington, Independent Conservative candidate for West Bermondsey, in the General Election, against the National Liberal candidate, Mr. Charles Scriven, for libel in a poster.

SPECULATE £5 in rich Arkansas Oil Land

It may mean a Fortune to You

SPECIAL OFFER

to "Daily Mirror" Readers

The "OIL LAND REVIEW" will be posted Free upon receipt of Request Form below

The "OIL LAND REVIEW" is an exhaustive report upon the newly discovered fortune-building Oilfields of Arkansas, U.S.A., and dealing in detail with one of the soundest and most attractive propositions for the small speculator that has ever been brought before the British public.

It tells of the enormous fortunes which are now being made out of Arkansas Oil. Fortunes being made from practically nothing and almost overnight by those lucky enough to be "on the spot." It gives the Oil situation in Arkansas at a glance; it contains valuable official information, together with authoritative details secured by our own expert, who has only recently returned from a personal tour of investigation. This information is embodied in the "OIL LAND REVIEW," which is available to every bona-fide speculator, free.

It is the most up-to-the-minute-reference on Arkansas Oil, and has been produced at great cost. It will be sent you gratis, together with valuable geological and statistical reports, map, actual photographs and full information concerning the Mutual Participation Pool, entirely without obligation on your part, upon receipt of the request form below.

THE £5 MUTUAL PARTICIPATION POOL

Under the Mutual Participation Plan which has been introduced by the Cambrian Trust Ltd., these Oil fortunes may now be shared by anyone, anywhere, who possesses the pluck to speculate a matter of five pounds. It gives you the opportunity of your lifetime! It is your great golden chance; an enthralling enterprise; better than any Calcutta sweepstake, for you get real value all the way, right from the start. The plan makes you the actual property owner in rich Arkansas, with a 50% participating interest in the production of any Oil derived therefrom. Arkansas is one of the most recent and important Oil discoveries of America. It has made new Oil history, and the property being operated by the Cambrian Trust lies within the coastal plain region where conditions are more favourable than elsewhere in the State for the accumulation of Oil and Natural Gas.

Read the facts. Send for copy of the "OIL LAND REVIEW," which gives official proof and actual camera evidence. Fill in and post the request form below, to:—

POST
COUPON TO-DAY

The CAMBRIAN TRUST, LTD.
29, Regent Street, London, S.W.1

This Is Your Opportunity—Investigate It.

Cut along this line

POST To The Cambrian Trust Ltd., TO-DAY 29, Regent Street, London, S.W.1.

Dear Sirs.—I am interested in the Arkansas Oil Land development, and without incurring any obligation on my part whatsoever, I would like you to forward me copy of the "OIL LAND REVIEW," explaining how a £5 speculation will make me the legal owner of a highly valuable plot of oil land, with a 50% participating interest in the production of any oil derived therefrom.

Name.....

Address.....

Date of posting..... D.M.Y.

PORTRAITS IN TO-DAY'S NEWS

Constable Albert Legg, of the Metropolitan Police, who showed considerable pluck in stopping a runaway horse in Blackfriars-road. (Daily Mirror photograph.)

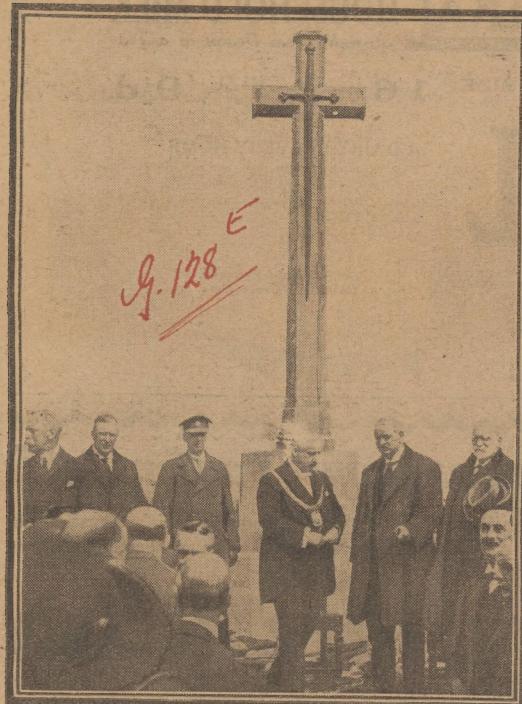

Rear-Admiral Hugh D. R. Watson has been appointed Rear-Admiral of the 4th Battle Squadron, Mediterranean Fleet in succession to Rear-Admiral J. D. Kelly.

COUNTRYWOMEN'S FOLK DANCE ON OAK APPLE DAY

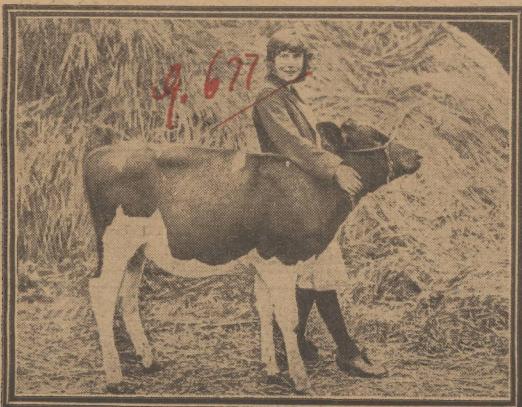

GROVELY! GROVELY! GROVELY!
AND ALL GROVELY!
UNITY IS STRENGTH

Elderly villagers of Wishford, Wilts, give a folk dance on the village green.

TO FALLEN HEROES.—The memorial in Anfield Cemetery, Liverpool, to all fallen soldiers buried in the city and, standing at its foot, the Lord Mayor, Mr. F. C. Wilson, who unveiled it.—(Daily Mirror.)

A PAIR OF COUNTRY BEAUTIES.—Miss Nightingale, chairman of the Young Farmers' Club, with the beautiful British Friesian calf, which it is to be her pleasure and profit to rear.

Bringing home the green wood, which may be cut only on Oak Apple Day.

Women with bundles of "snap wood." This they may gather all the year.

Villagers decorating their cottages with oak branches and the Union Jack.

On Oak Apple Day every year the villagers of Wishford, near Salisbury, celebrate with quaint and ancient ceremonial their rights granted by charter of gathering wood from Grovely Woods, a mile or two away. The day ends with dances and "catching the greasy pig."—(Daily Mirror photographs.)

Daily Mirror

THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1923.

SUPERCILIOUS."

DO differences in manners separate nations more than their perpetual political divergences?

A celebrated American novelist, professedly anxious to "love England," has told us that he is often "put off" by our "superciliousness."

It is an old charge. We do not know that we are "supercilious." We don't do it on purpose. But apparently our manner with the foreigner is "superior." He resents it. America resents it especially.

This is a small thing, though, surely, to stand between great nations who could do so much for the world, were they united in sympathy! If indeed we have that superior manner we must learn to modify it. In most cases it is one of the effects of a shyness which shows itself in various ways with various peoples. In fact, superciliousness may be only indifference in disguise. For, after all, the Englishman of to-day—after many trials and much suffering—is not at heart so haughty, so self-satisfied, as his forefathers were in days when we were in the van of competition, rulers of the world's trade, and chief exponents of modern industrial "progress."

However that may be, it is odd that those nations who resent our loftiness of manner never seem to be aware that they, too, in their more tactless representatives, often give the impression that they despise all countries but their own.

Who, for example, has not met the travelling American whose main task in conversation appears to be to tell us how little he thinks of our funny "has-been" country? We do not—or we must not—take him seriously. He thereupon accuses us of superciliousness!

Let him reflect that it's only our way of indicating that we don't want to make odious comparisons. Every nation is the best in its own eyes. That is patriotism. You cannot argue about it.

CARICATURES.

SEVERAL critics have explained that certain erudities, or cruelties, in Mr. Max Beerbohm's latest series of caricatures are to be accounted for by the fact that he "has lived so long out of England."

This sounds a little rude to the charming land where Max has so long resided. But it only means, apparently, that the art of the Continental caricaturist is deliberately personal in its attack.

This distinction did not always prevail. Rowlandson and his English imitators were as "nasty" as Daumier in France, or Forain, occasionally, to-day. Later the savage thrust became blunter in this country; just as, in politics, violence of abuse gave way to a more guarded irony.

In general, however, the art of the caricaturist is dangerous—for the artist.

At heart, nobody likes to see himself made ridiculous. We like cartoons about other people. If we buy those of ourselves it is often only that we may suppress them.

Max has perhaps forgotten then that in England certain sanctities are placed by our conventions beyond the reach of the satirist. Religion is one of them. Royalty is another.

He should return to a habit that used to protect him from mishaps. He should circulate his too daring cartoons, as Shakespeare did his sonnets, "amongst his private friends," and keep only his gentler satire for the public. Then he would not have to congratulate himself that he does live in Italy—safe from the retaliation of his victims.

W. M.

THROUGH "THE MIRROR."

Manners in Parliament—Our Disappointing Summers—Pleasures of Cycling—Dog Fares—Theatrical Troubles.

TALK ABOUT SPORT.

THEIR is not much harm in young men talking about sport, even if at times it does rather interfere with business amongst the young people of the office.

Sport is, after all, a health-giving occupation. It is much better than talking about silly love affairs.

Pall Mall, S.W.

AN EMPLOYER.

SILLY JOKES.

CAN nothing be done to keep the more childish members of the Labour Party from their idiotic habit of interrupting with silly jokes, and singing during divisions, or otherwise behaving as foolish schoolboys?

Speaking of the late Lord Chaplin, you say the Parliament has small manners nowadays. Whose fault is this?

For years we had the Irish Party with their

WAS IT ALWAYS SO?

SURELY it is strange that nobody can give us an explanation of the collapse of our summers.

Was it always so? And, if it was, why do we read so much in books about the beauties of May and June.

SHIVERING.

GREATER EXPENSE.

I THINK the reason for the falling off in attendance at the theatres is this—

The public in recent years are living (like my self, an old old theatre-goer) further out of town, in an eight to twelve miles radius; whereas in the old days people lived nearer town. It then cost only a few pence to get to a theatre; to-day one has an hour's travelling to get home.

There is, therefore, the cost of travelling with members of the family, and the extra cost of theatres (5s., at least, per head). For these

SUMMER FASHIONS AND THE ENGLISH CLIMATE.

WHEREAS, OF COURSE, WE KNOW IT TO BE MORE LIKE THIS—

THEFORE, WHY NOT CONCENTRATE ON DESIGNS FOR UMBRELLAS INSTEAD OF HATS?

Why not concentrate a little more on protection from rain, instead of from the sun we so rarely see?

STRANGERS' GALLERY.

MANY thousands of your readers will much appreciate your excellent article urging the railway companies to reduce the fares for dogs.

Not only would it be a financial gain to them, but a kind consideration due to our four-footed friends, whose faithfulness and devotion are often an object lesson to us.

How often we hear of a dog seeking out the grave of its master or mistress, and lying down to it to die, sooner than be parted from one they love. There must be many kind-hearted directors of railways who can realise the agony some of these faithful four-footed companions suffer at being parted from their children playmates. All dog-lovers hope that you will continue your appeal on behalf of the friend of man.

H. W.

TAKE YOUR DOG."

MY experience has been different to that of "Former Cyclist." After fifteen years abroad in a non-cycling country I returned to England and the bicycle (not push-bike, please!) three years ago.

At forty years of age, in company with my wife and youngster of thirteen, I am doing fifty miles or so every Sunday on the cycle, to say nothing of little jaunts of anywhere from 150 to 600 miles on the longer holidays when we tour the country.

After pottering among the by-ways of Essex on our Sunday runs, we enjoy nothing better than to join the fast-moving stream of traffic on the Epping road on our return journey, and we fear no moving vehicles; in fact, we find the majority of motor drivers most considerate.

We are not physical culture cranks, but just people of very ordinary powers. Thanks to cycling, I am enjoying better health now than I have for years past, and getting a great deal of enjoyment at a very low figure!

THIRTY-FOUR YEARS IN BOHEMIA.

SIDELIGHTS ON A FAMOUS LONDON CLUB.

By W. H. BROOKS.

RECOLLECTIONS OF A SAVAGE. By Edwin A. Ward. (Herbert Jenkins, 18s. net.) Published today.

FEW auto-biographies have contained such a wealth of good stories about famous men as this brightly-written book.

Mr. Edwin Ward takes us right into the Kraze of the artistic and exclusive circle known as the Savage Club, and he introduces us to member after member whose names are household words in the realms of art and letters.

An alluring retreat is this home of the Savages! Once through the friendly portals of the well-known house in the Adelphi and you join a community where Mr. Ward assures us absolute equality reigns and where "famous or neglected, rich or poor, shabby or elegant, you hang up your halo with your hat in the hall."

One thing Mr. Ward makes perfectly clear and that is that "Bohemia is only dangerous to people who are able to afford to make an occupation of what is intended to be merely a relaxation."

"All the best Savages I have known during thirty-four years of membership," he says, "have been distinguished in art, science, literature, music or the drama, and if they knew how to play they knew also how to work. They were vigorous people who ate well, drank well and stuck to their job."

A STORY OF PHIL MAY.

Delightfully funny are some of the stories which Mr. Ward tells of men like E. J. Odell and Phil May.

One night Odell undertook the delicate and difficult task of taking May home in a cab to Maida Vale.

Having deposited his very drowsy charge on a sofa in the hall, Odell, who had not the wherewithal to charter a cab for the return journey, tramped back to the club, comforted by the thought that he had rendered a service to an old friend.

When Odell arrived at his destination, however, he was amazed to find Phil May standing at the bar with glass in hand and flushed with the joy of having defeated the designs of his Good Samaritan by rushing back in a cab while poor Odell was tramping.

It is not always a case of careless days and sunshine in Bohemia, however. Mr. Ward gives us both the tragic and the light side of an artist's life, and, of course, he must show us Chelsea, the habitation of famous folk with a following in art and letters.

It was at Chelsea that Frank Mills discovered Sally Higgs, one of the most beautiful artists' models of her day.

Her mother sold flowers near Victoria Station, but "the fairest bloom in her basket, with a wild beauty all her own, was the sweet, bare-footed child who trotted by her side and hawked violets."

Transplanted into a studio in Tite-street, she was petted and spoiled. Leighton, Marcus Stone and Britten each painted this wonder child with "the great eyes and the halo of gold that framed her flower-like face."

An Eaton boy married her; years afterwards her husband inherited a big fortune, but the air was charged with domestic trouble, and they parted. What became of Sally no one ever knew.

KEEP

your eye on that cut or bruise lest it take bad ways! You can avoid the risk of blood-poisoning and skin disease by cleansing and healing the wound at once with

Zam-Buk

This real skin medicine and healer is of unique herbal origin and is more far-reaching than, and quite different from, any other preparation. Insist upon having Zam-Buk and keep a box always

HANDY

TO-DAY'S GOSSIP

News and Views About Men, Women and Affairs in General

A Vision?

Lord Birkenhead looked in the pink of health at the Mansion House yesterday afternoon. In aid of the Air League's appeal, he pictured London destroyed in twelve hours, using almost every art of the orator to enforce his point.

Savoy Nights.

The most vivid touch in his speech was the story of how General Smuts and himself sat up many a night at the Savoy Hotel watching the enemy's Zeppes and aeroplanes attacking the capital!

The New "Cromwell."

In "Oliver Cromwell" Mr. John Drinkwater gives us another history lesson. His Majesty's Theatre makes a spacious schoolroom, possessing amenities which many educational establishments lack. But there will be those who think that the master is throwing a good deal of dust in our young eyes. Was the Protector so nice a man as Mr. Drinkwater makes him? Was he really a believer in the Monarchy and did he prophesy that it would speedily return? Was he "fond of a drop" and could he recite the Psalms with the voice of an angel?

By Way of Contrast:

Mr. John Drinkwater is one of the authors—Mr. Eden Phillpotts is another—who have begun life as clerks in insurance offices. His father is said to have put him into the insurance office in order to discourage his taste for the theatre. He wrote poems and plays in his spare time, however, married an actress and eventually became co-founder of the Birmingham Repertory Theatre.

Mirthquake.

The film industry has not produced a really good, humorous film for a considerable time. Chaplin has been very quiet, and Harold Lloyd, whom American "picture fans" are claiming as his successor, has hitherto just missed making an outstanding picture. His latest effort, "Safety Last," is, however, one of the best "mirthquakes" Los Angeles has sent us.

Set a Fashion.

Lloyd, who made horn-rimmed spectacles fashionable, has been seven years rising to stardom. He has a distinctive personality, and also possesses the priceless gift of originality. In "Safety Last" we have an exceptional film, which, owing to the chaotic system prevailing in the film business, cannot be seen in public until January!

Film Congestion.

I am often asked why picture-goers have to wait such a long time before films are released for general exhibition. It used to be said that the congestion was due to block-booking during the war. It is now nearly five years since hostilities ceased, but cinema proprietors still have their programmes booked for months ahead, in many cases with films of very mediocre quality. The remedy is free trade in films.

"Idler" Days.

The "Contributors' Club" of Mr. J. Midleton Murry's new magazine is really a revival of an old idea. The "Idlers' Club" was one of the characteristic features of the "Idler," founded by Messrs. Jerome, Robert Barr and John Oxenham. Those who gossiped as members of the club included Andrew Lang, Henry Harland, Israel Zangwill, Barry Pain, Eden Phillpotts and Francis Gribble.

Plantation Artists.

Stanley Lupino is now completely restored after his accident, and London playgoers are at last to have an opportunity of seeing the much-discussed negro artists from "The Plantation" New York. Mr. Cochran's long-promised revue, "Dover Street to Dixie," makes its bow at the Pavilion to-night.

Psychologists.

Girls are taking up psychology as a career though here again the Germans are getting busy, Berlin even now supplying psychologists to Belgium, and to Russia, too, where they would seem to be needed. Private practitioners have begun in London, I am told.

Cancer Research, Limited.

The medical men who are promoting a joint stock company for the promotion of cancer research may be congratulated on their happy thought. There can, of course, be no question of dividends; but the discovery of the cause and cure of this terrible and mysterious malady is everybody's business, and everybody should be willing to contribute his mite towards the cost.

Odd Eyes.

A Thornton Heath correspondent says the most singular case of odd eyes he ever came across was that of a schoolfellow of his. One of the boy's eyes was dark amber colour, the other eye was one-half dark amber the other half turquoise blue, the division being vertical. A Leicester reader tells me of a case of a man who has one dark blue eye and one light grey. The lashes on one lid are dark brown and on the other almost white.

Richmond Park Golf.

I hear that the Prince of Wales will open the Richmond Park public golf course on Saturday, June 9, when he will drive the first ball. The course will not be open for public play till the following Monday. Five-day annual playing tickets are being issued at three guineas, and play on Saturday and Sunday will be at the rate of 1s. 6d. per round.

Handel.

The book on Handel, which Mr. Newman Flower has taken four years to write, is out to-day. It shows the composer of "Messiah" to have been a simple and lovable man—even if he did occasionally steal a tune. His full name was George Frideric Handel—not "Frederic," as many spell it.

New Milne Play.

"Success," a new play by A. A. Milne, will be produced at the Haymarket on Ascot Day, June 21. It is a play of to-day and the first written by Mr. Milne since "The Truth About Blaydes."

Complete Collection of the WORLD'S BEST MUSIC

Here is a feast of music that will bring joy and delight to every home and to every lover of good music. The finest collection of Songs and Pianoforte Solos ever gathered into one collection. There are Songs for every voice. Pianoforte Solos for every performer.

THE MUSIC LOVER'S PORTFOLIO

Edited by SIR LANDON RONALD.

Principal, Guildhall School of Music, London.

Published in four beautiful volumes that are a delight to handle and a joy to own. If you could only see the four volumes and play over some of the pieces you would go into ecstasies of delight over them.

Over One Hundred SONGS

Opera Music. Classical Music. Popular Music. Dance Music.

Songs to Suit Every Voice. Pianoforte Solos for Every Performer.

OVER ONE HUNDRED PIANOFORTE SOLOS

Woodland Song, First Movement. Clutman-Bestoen. Icarus, Second Movement. Daniel. Landor, Third Movement. Beethoven. Ircana, Fourth Movement. Beethoven. Arvensy, Fifth Movement. Beethoven. Bowes, Sixth Movement. Fletcher. Schumann.

Three Dream Dances. Tchaikovsky-Cotteridge-Taylor. Romance. Austria. Liebestraume Nocturne. Schubert. Second Prelude. Schubert. Fifth Symphony, Movement I. Balfe/Gardiner. Tchaikovsky.

Etc. Etc. Etc.

Unique Series of Musical Lessons

by the world's greatest artists complete what must be regarded as the finest repository of music ever published.

FREE

If you will fill in your name and address on the coupon and post it we will send you free of charge a handsome booklet giving particulars of this unique Music Library. There is absolutely no charge for this book, so tear off the coupon and send for it now.

*South African News Agency, Ltd., Johannesburg,
P.O. Box 1033, Johannesburg.*

POST THIS FREE COUPON

No money required. No charge of any kind.

To The WAVERLEY BOOK CO., Ltd.
(Dept. D. Mir. I, 96, Farringdon Street, London, E.C.4.)

Please send me, without charge, your Free Illustrated Booklet, containing all particulars as to contents, etc., of "THE MUSIC LOVER'S PORTFOLIO" and "THE COMPLETE COLLECTION OF THE MUSIC LOVER'S PORTFOLIO" for a nominal first payment, the balance to be paid by small monthly payments beginning thirty days after delivery of Work.

NAME (Send this form in unsealed envelope with 4d. stamp.)

ADDRESS
D. Mir. I, 1923.

Mr. J. H. Roberts, to play the part of an old vicar in "Lilies of the Field" at the Ambassadors Theatre.

Mrs. John Drinkwater, wife of the author, whose "Oliver Cromwell" is now on His Majesty's Theatre.

THE FIRST COURT.

The Moral of "Max"—History-Lesson Drama—Film Star Arrives.

LADY CURZON, in her capacity as wife of the Foreign Secretary, was one of the busiest of those engaged at last night's Court, as she had to present all those foreign ladies of the Diplomatic Corps who had not been there before, and Mrs. Baldwin had a similar "job," as the wife of the new Prime Minister. Lady Sykes was to have done it, as Mr. Bonar Law's daughter, but, naturally, her presentations last night devolved on Mrs. Baldwin.

Premier's Daughters.

Mrs. Baldwin was accompanied by three of her daughters—Mrs. Huntington Whiteley, the Hon. Mrs. Arthur Howard and Miss Betty Baldwin. They all had some gold lace somewhere on their dresses, which were otherwise all made quite differently.

Lord Plunket's Lady.

Among those at the Palace last night was the beautiful Lady Plunket, who was presented "on her marriage" to Lord Plunket. This marriage was one of the interesting social events of 1922. Lady Plunket is a daughter of Miss Fanny Ward, the actress, and was formerly married to Mr. Jack Barnato, son of the South African millionaire, Barney Barnato. She is said to have a fortune approaching £900,000. She is twenty-two and Lord Plunket is twenty-four.

Countess of Ancester's Pearls.

The Countess of Ancester wore all her big pearls at the dance at Eresby House on Tuesday, and nothing could have been a better background than the dress of black velvet. The ballroom got very crowded—which pleased Lady Carisbrooke very much, as it meant so much money for her pet charity, the Friends of the Poor. Sir Robert Horne looked in quite late, and Sir "Cis" Bingham was another of the men there whom one does not generally see at these things.

The New Prime Minister.

Mr. Baldwin is setting an excellent example to the House of Commons by his regularity of attendance. He remained on duty during the fifteen hours' sitting which terminated at ten minutes past six yesterday morning, and returned to the Treasury Bench in the afternoon looking as bright as the proverbial new pin.

—And the Man in the Street.

The Premier has not yet become a familiar figure to the man in the street. I caught a glimpse of Mr. Baldwin in Whitehall yesterday. Yet scarcely a single person in this busy thoroughfare recognised him in the quietly dressed, silk-hatted passer-by the Prime Minister of England.

Political Hostesses.

There are a number of pretty young political hostesses this season. One of them is Lady Eustace Percy, who divides her time between Hastings and London. As a hobby she does excellent lacquer work. Lady de Trafford will not be a hostess this season owing to the death of her mother, Mrs. Franklin. Lady de Trafford has one unmarried sister, and her only brother married Lady Edith Curzon, one of Lord Howes' sisters.

Frinton Again.

People are already making plans for "after the season," and Frinton-on-Sea appears to hold its own in point of popularity. Mrs. Winston Churchill, who did a lot of entertaining there last summer, may go again, and Mrs. Dudley Ward also contemplates taking a house there.

Lady Eustace Percy.

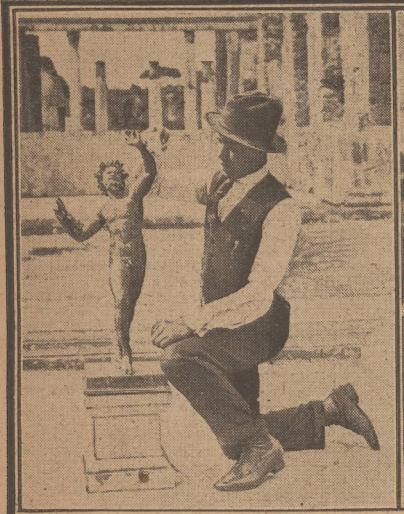

Miss Mary Lyttelton, daughter of the Hon. Mrs. Alfred Lyttelton, who is so interested in psychological research.

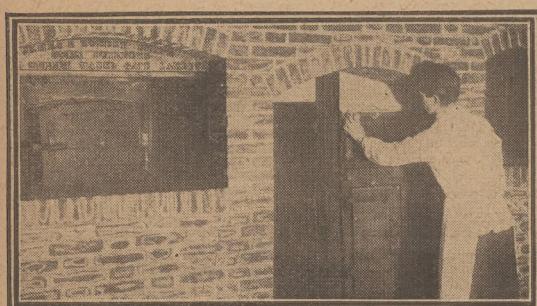

Miss Griselda Joynton-Hicks, only daughter of Sir William Joynton-Hicks, Financial Secretary to the Treasury.

NEW WONDERS FOUND BY EXCAVATION AT POMPEII

Left picture: A newly-discovered statue of Jupiter at Pompeii. Right: Huge bowls and jars found in the excavations.

THE CITY'S OLDEST OVENS.—The famous ovens at Birch's—the Cornhill restaurant founded in 1690—are not to be used any more, but are being preserved as interesting relics.

A workman replacing mosaic in a wonderful fountain.
The recent excavations by a new method of Professor Spinazzola at Pompeii have resulted in the discovery of ancient houses and monuments almost complete.

DAME MELBA, M.P.?—Dame Nellie Melba, the famous prima donna, may shortly become a candidate for Parliament. She says it is too early to say anything definite, but, "After all, I can speak well and I have a few brains, you know."

The Rev. Dr. Wardle Stafford, of Newcastle, who will probably undertake a lecture tour of the country at Toronto.

TO KEEP MEMORY GREEN.—General Foreman, of the United States Army, laying wreaths on the graves of American soldiers at Brookwood Cemetery, near Woking. Yesterday was the day of commemoration of all American fallen.

PHAROS-TRANQUI

The finish of yesterday's important Derby trial at Epsom, with Tranquil winning by a neck. Tranquil

Mr. Blackwell, the trainer, giving Sergeant Murphy, a Grand National filly, a "busman's holiday" watching the horses at work.

Mrs. George Lambton (left), the Hon. George Newydd made the market—the four-year-old Silurian beating Pharaos two lengths behind.

DERBY TRIAL

5850

os, with Weston up, photographed just before trial. He was not, apparently, ridden right out at the finish of the gallop.

1702 and Lady Victoria Bullock on the Heath. market, when Lord Derby's pair, Pharaos, the Silurian. As a result, it was decided that kept over for the Oaks: Torlonia and Plas the first mile.

THE PRINCE OF WALES AND LIFEBOATMEN

The Prince of Wales chatting with the Sperm Head lifeboat crew during his visit yesterday to Bradford, where he followed up his introduction to the steel industry at Sheffield by an insight into the preparation of wool.—(Daily Mirror photograph.)

SHOREDITCH BLAZE.—Part of the damage done in Hiph-street, Shoreditch, yesterday, when about 150 firemen were engaged in quelling an outbreak at a cabinet-making works.—(Daily Mirror photograph.)

A PETS' HOSPITAL.—Left picture: Patients and their guardians in the waiting-room at the Animals' Hospital at Rothehithe, where out-patients the pets of poor people are treated free of charge. Right: A dog on the dentist's table about to have a tooth extracted. The institution is known as the People's Dispensary for Sick Animals of the Poor.

RECORD-BREAKING FLIGHT.—Major Gnosspelius (left), designer, and Mr. Lancaster Parker, pilot, with their 5-h.p. engined aeroplane, which, during trials at Lympne, travelled at sixty-five miles an hour at a height of 1,500ft., a performance that beats all previous records for flights made in a low-powered machine.

Major Harry Mandelbaum, aged 72, has entered for the Kink's Prize at Bisley for the fiftieth time.

CONVENIENCE!

There is no hurrying for raw suet and time wasting in skinning it and chopping it when you have "ATORA."

All this has been done for you. "ATORA" is saving patience in thousands of kitchens throughout the country. It is always sweet and ready for immediate use.

Try a packet to-day.

SHREDDED "Atora" is supreme for all kinds of Puddings, Piecrust, Mincemeat, etc.

"Atora" in BLOCKS is unsurpassed for frying fish and potatoes, for basting, and all cooking purposes.

Send for Booklet of 100 tested recipes to Hugon & Co., Ltd., Manchester.

It adds Safety to Cleanliness

Nubolic Soap

Besides cleansing thoroughly, Nubolic Soap disinfects and makes the home too healthy for disease germs to live in.

For safety's sake always use Nubolic where children are concerned. Wash them, wash their clothing, wash the floor they play on, all with Nubolic Soap, and it will help to shield them against skin disorders and all infection. The regular use of Nubolic makes the whole house fresher, cleaner, safer.

Of all Grocers, Oilmen and Stores.

Two Sizes: 16oz. and 12oz.
full weight when manufactured.

If any difficulty in obtaining write

Joseph Watson & Sons, Ltd.
Whitehall Soap Works, Leeds.

W^m.P.HARTLEY'S Table Jellies

MANY a housewife owes her reputation for culinary work to the quickly prepared Hartley's Jellies. Their glistening transparency makes them extremely tempting. Only the purest and most wholesome ingredients are used.

Having once sampled their delicious flavour, you will never want to use any but Hartley's—you will always find the price right too.

For the children they are a delight, a pleasure, and a tasty delicacy.

LONDON AND AINTREE

DAILY MIRROR REFLECTIONS

Vol. XVI.

Contains all the best of W. K. Haselden's
Cartoons of the past year.

Including:

DORIS AND THE LONDON SEASON.

FATHERS AND SONS.

WOMAN'S DRESS AND MODERN SPORT.

GWEN AND BETTY AT CHRISTMAS TIME.

PRICE 1/- net, or 1/3 post free.

PIP, SQUEAK AND WILFRED

A Happy Family of Pets Whose Comical Adventures Are Famous Throughout the World

FRILLY FROCKS FOR SQUEAK.

Daily Mirror Office.
MY DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS,

Suggestions for a new summer frock for Squeak are already arriving from some of my nieces (I am offering several prizes, as you know, for the best ideas for a Squeak costume sent to me before June 9 next), and I have spent some time this morning puzzling over the various patterns and designs sent in. I must confess I am rather "out of my depth"! I think I shall have to send for an expert dressmaker to help me out!

One little girl living at Sittingbourne, Kent, sends two pages of designs. There are several and if only Squeak could appear at a party in such a wonderful gown she would create a tremendous sensation!

Mary Dickinson favours "plenty of frills" in "Mayag" style (whatever that is!), and should have "four frills at each side." It should have a "square neck, with beads round it and up the short sleeves. Belt or fancy girdle to match."

I shall be very pleased to see any more ideas you care to send along. Angeline is going to judge the competition, and when she has chosen the most suitable costume we shall get it properly made at a fashionable dressmakers.

What fun it will be when Squeak tries on her new dress for the first time! We shall have to get a special photograph of her, which, no doubt, will appear in The Daily Mirror for your special benefit!

Your affectionate Uncle Dick.

A LAMPPOST "INTERRUPTS" SQUEAK'S PRETTY SONG

1. Hearing a little girl singing yesterday Squeak soon picked up the words and tune.

2. To Pip's great annoyance she started singing the little air as they walked home.

3. Nothing would stop her. "Play with the gypsies in the wood," she trilled as she danced along.

4. "Come on, Wilf—let's leave her!" cried Pip. Squeak, still singing, did not see the lamppost.

5. And then—crash!—her little head came a nasty crack against the cold iron.

6. Of course, Pip rushed to the rescue and soon brought poor Squeak round. Isn't she unlucky?

ideas for party frocks which I am sure would send Squeak wild with delight could she wear them. Little strings of rosebuds on a cream-coloured material would no doubt suit our pretty girl very well.

Madge Gilbert sends a design for an evening gown for Squeak. This is a description of it—I'm sure I don't know what it means:

"A white lace-trimmed frock (allow freedom of movement); plait belt of pale blue and red ditto collar; pale blue cape, mauve lining."

Can you understand this, girls? I can see what it means in the accompanying illustration,

"HEARD THIS ONE?"

"Will you have any more bread, Dickie?" asked auntie.

"No," said Dickie, rudely.

"You mustn't speak to me like that, dear. No what?"

"No bread!"

"I say, there's a fish in the parrot cage!" cried Jack.

"No! How did it get there?" asked mother.

"I don't know; it's a perch!" said Jack hurrying off.

SCARBOROUGH
THE QUEEN OF WATERING PLACES FOR A HAPPY HEALTHY HOLIDAY
GARDENS GALORE

TWO GLORIOUS BAYS FIRM CLEAN SANDS

FIRST CLASS TENNIS AND GOLF OPEN-AIR BATHING POOL

THE BEST MUSIC AND ENTERTAINMENTS

Illustrated Booklet (post free) from Room 3, Town Hall, Scarborough

LILLIBULLERO BULLEN A LA !'

Famous Songs Which Have Set the Whole Country Singing.

SQUEAK'S little adventure to-day is very amusing, isn't it? We all know how a catchy tune will get into our heads until it becomes quite a nuisance.

There have been many songs so popular that they have set everyone in England bumbling and whistling them. Perhaps the most famous was one with the catchy refrain of "Lillibullero bullen a la!" This was very popular in the time of King James II., a stupid and obstinate king. One of the verses was:—

"There was an old prophecy found in a bog, Ireland should be ruled by an ass and a dog!"

: James was the ass, and Tyroonel, his favourite, was the dog!"

: After each verse came the refrain, "Lillibullero bullen a la!" and if you repeat this now you will see how easily it slips from the tongue. Not until it "chased King James out of his three kingdoms," did the author, Lord Wharton, boast!

"THE YOUNG CHEVALIER!"

Another famous song was "Charlie is Ma Darlin', the Young Chevalier!" This was sung by the followers of the Young Pretender, who tried to wrest the crown of England from George II.

It was fashionable, at one time, for songs to end with some jingling words which meant nothing, but sounded well. "With a fa la la la!" was a favourite one; another was "With a Hey Nonny Nonny!" What a "Nonny Nonny" exactly I haven't the faintest idea!

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

During the war, as everyone knows, we were all singing "Tommy!" Almost every war has its special song, and even in the days of Richard II., the angry peasants had their rhyme, which went as follows:

"When Adam delved (dug) and Eve span,
Who was then the gentle-man?"

A DEBT OF HONOUR

By MAY EDGINTON

GIVING IS GAINING

ON the very day that King Garnet sailed, Anna was sitting with Lucia again in her rose-coloured bedroom, and Marie, with tearful eyes, came in and put to fetch the beautiful clothes from cupboard and wardrobe, and a drawer to fill the trunks which she was packing in an adjoining room. The heavenly sun of a May day streamed through the open window, and also there entered familiar and friendly, the thousand little sounds of the town.

The window-boxes were filled with rows of hyacinths, whose sweet, heavy smell stole to the two women within; there were roses, as usual—Tivington's—on the dressing-table, a silver teatray on the satin fender-stool, and a litter of invitation cards on Lucia's little rosewood desk in the corner.

Yet all was changed. Anna sat and looked at Lucia almost in awe; Lucia, who was at peace, from whose face the tired lines were smoothing away; whose eyes were restful, who said thankfully that she now slept at nights.

"Oh, Lucia!" said Anna, fearful for Lucia as was never fearful of herself, "are you sure?"

Lucia smiled.

"Are you sure," Anna hurried on, "that you can do it—endure it for ever? That it isn't just a phase, a respite, Lucia? You, who've so loved the girl, and all your toys, my dear, do you truly realise that you're giving up everything, for ever?"

"And gaining so much, Anna!" said Lucia.

"When did you finally decide, my dear?"

"Yesterday," said Lucia. "I talked it all out with Father Bernard. I've been to see the Convent, I've talked with the Mother Superior. I've seen all they're doing, Anna. It isn't an inward life, though; it's an outward life. It's an outward life. They visit the sick, they nurse, and work and teach, and they give all they have to the poor—all things very new to me, dear. And I see they are splendid. If I learn to give enough I may even be splendid myself one day."

"Oh, Lucia, I shall lose you."

"No, no, my dear, never. We shall write to each other, think of each other, see each other sometimes. I shall be writing home with nothing to do, and nowhere to go, except to people who don't really want me. That'll be all the difference."

"You've loved clothes so much, Lucia!"

"All mine are going to a private society which will distribute them to young actresses who are very hard up and yet must make a good appearance. It's a good way to dispose of them. I have some lovely things, Anna."

"Oh, Lucia!"

"Is there anything at all that you would like, Anna, before I sell my jewellery?"

"Nothing at all, darling."

"I bring all my money to the convent, of course. At last it will be used beautifully, of the right penny."

"I have a fond anyone, Lucia?"

Lucia shook her head. "Whom have I to tell, Anna? Nobody cares but you."

"Lord Tivington, perhaps?"

"He does not care," said Lucia with a smile.

"Marie cares, Lucia," Anna said quickly, thinking of the Frenchwoman's tearful eyes.

"She loses a good job, my dear."

Anna took Lucia's hand in a long silence.

"Lucie," Lucia when—

"To-morrow."

"To-morrow, Lucia? So very soon?"

"To-morrow I enter the novitiate, and in a year's time I take the veil. My way is all just carved out for me, now, Anna, and I haven't a thought, a wish a sorrow or a struggle. That is how the Mother Superior explained it all to me. You will just serve," she said. The most natural and natural words, Anna—

Anna gasped and faced the door. She looked into the other room, where sullenly Marie was packing lovely gown after lovely gown, and cascades of chiffons, lingerie hung about everywhere, on chairbacks and couch.

"It is like death," she said, coming back.

Lucie sat still in her usual chair, her usual rose-pillow behind her.

"I lie, my dear."

"How you truly thought carefully enough, Lucia!"

Lucie nodded.

"Several times in my life, Anna, I've known a woman do much as I am doing; with a religious order, and lose herself so that her world never found her again. And I've smiled with the others and said: 'Poor Dolores,' 'there was one called Dolores'; 'Poor Moira'—I remember a girl, a Moira Silman, doing it. She's always fully entered into it, we said. How sad she is. She didn't know she didn't know, I don't know, I don't know now all that I shall know by and by. But the greatest dedication you can make could not possibly be bitter nor sad."

"There is something glorious about it; privately glorious, that one feels in one's own heart. Giving all one has to give is surely worth doing. Sell all thou hast and give to the poor! . . ."

(All the characters in this story are fictitious. Translation, dramatic, and all other rights reserved.)

On a note of rapture Lucia's voice died.

Anna went to her and kneeled beside her. "This is good-bye, then, Lucia, for a long time. I go next week. I'm going to sing in Rome, in Milan, in Berlin, in Paris. Anna in opera, under Marin!"

"I have a year's contract abroad, Lucia. Then I come back to London to sing at Covent Garden."

"All you ever wanted," said Lucia, with a dreamy smile. "Take it, Anna, and be very happy. Be as happy as I am. You can't be more."

And she whispered "Good-bye" like an Amen.

THE PRETENDERS.

ON the day that King Garnet left England, and Lucia and Anna had that farewell talk in the little incense-filled house, Silver Garnet sat at sea in Mabel Conway's drawing-room.

Mrs. Garnet had received, with regretful protestation, his promise of a thousand pound allowance, and had gone away to rest before dinner. But still Lady Mabel and Silver sat on in the long green room, with teacups between them.

Silver admired Mabel extremely, she was so wonderful in that she believed all he said.

She believed in him, at his bidding, as much as he believed in himself. She was satisfying. And she listened. She was going to be a companion in her own right—when the tuberculous brother died—and yet she listened, with interest, to Silver Garnet talking about himself.

It confirmed him in his view that Silver Garnet was a pretty boy, with a great lion character, and a lion's heart from him like the rays of a powerful lamp; or how could he so mesmerise such a little aristocrat?

"I'm going into the City," he said. "I intend to make money. I know some people would say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an

say I have plenty, and I suppose I have, for an say I have plenty, and I suppose I have,

MOTHER!

Your Child Needs "California Syrup of Figs."

Hurry Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" now will thoroughly clear the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, plump child again. Even the most nervous, constipated child loves its "fruity" taste, and mothers can rest easy because it never fails to work all the sour bile and poisons right out of the stomach and bowels without griping or upsetting the child.

Tell your Chemist you want only the genuine "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Of all Chemists, 1s, 3d, and 2s. Swan Down! You must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

A NEW GROWTH OF HAIR WITHIN YOUR REACH.

No matter how thin, short, dry or brittle your hair may be, it's an easy thing to make it grow long, soft, luxuriant and glossy. All you have to do is to get a bottle of Lavona Hair Tonic from the nearest chemist and apply it freely twice a day. This not only destroys the dandruff germ and stops the hair from falling out, but it also makes the hair grow wonderfully long, soft and luxuriant; due, it is claimed, to the fact that it supplies to the hair roots the only element which high authorities are agreed will really promote hair growth. You can get Lavona Hair Tonic from any good chemist at 2s. 11d. a bottle, and, owing to its unusual merit and the fact that the beneficial effect is so certain, you should at once give it a trial, for Lavona Hair Tonic succeeds where all else fails. —(Advt.)

Corns

gone
in a few days

The simplest way to end all corn misery is to use PAX. One application stops the ache. A few more and the entire corn can be easily and painlessly removed.

Pax

Price 9d. & 1/3 per Bottle.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

Baby Grand Piano, £25; piano, piano player, £20—£25; Kiddy Grand Piano, £15; Kiddy Piano, £10; Chas. Stiles AND CO. Pianos by half-grade masters. New and second-hand, for sale, hire or hire-purchase: grand pianos—£4-7s. 6d.; Southwark-road, W.C. 1. Phone Museum 479.

NEW Concert Grand Table Gramophone; solid oak. Price £15. 10s. 0d. with wireless. All latest improvements: superior tone; accept £5 0s. 0d. delivery. Richardson, 1, Warrington-road, Penketh, Warrington. PIANO-bargains, new and second-hand; best maker from 2s. monthly—Parkers, 167, Bishopsgate.

PHOTOGRAPHY.

State, 2s. 6d. per line; minimum, 2 lines. WORTH Clean Photo Material: catalogues, £2,000. WORTH Clean Photo Material: catalogues, £2,000. WORTH Clean Photo Material: catalogues, £2,000.

A COOKERY EXHIBITION OF THE FAR EAST

The figure on the left in his robes and with his wand rather suggests that magic is being worked on the fish. However, it is only an exhibition of Shijo cooking at the Tokio home of Baroness Shimazu (right).

HEREFORD CLERGY'S PROCESSION.—Two hundred clergy of the Diocese of Hereford walking in procession to the cathedral for service at Hereford, where they took part in a missionary pageant in the palace gardens.

The shack at a cross-roads, where three brothers now live.

The brothers Dunn—John (fifty-five), Alfred (sixty-seven) and Hugh (sixty).

FARMERS' NEW HOME.—These three brothers, having lost their money at farming, made their home at first under a tarpaulin over trellis-work. Now they have a shack.

Many famous beauties keep their complexions fresh and natural in this same way

Every woman who has tried in vain to keep the shininess powdered from her face, or to tone down a spotty redness, has wondered how some women always keep their skin looking soft and smooth, yet never artificial.

Many famous beauties could tell them the simple way to remove these faults.

They have found a powder that really does all the things women most desire in a powder.

So rich is Swan Down in adherent ingredients that it clings invisibly to the skin for hours.

So extra finely sifted, so perfectly matched to every feminine shade of skin, that it smooths on in an imperceptible film and cannot show.

Because Swan Down is so perfectly formulated that it has the greatest sale of any face powder in Great Britain, it can be sold for the surprisingly low price of 1s. a box.

You will find Swan Down at every chemist's, perfumer's, and departmental store in the United Kingdom. Sole agents in the United Kingdom: Henry C. O'Neill & Co., 1 & 5, Ludgate Square, E.C. 4.

Miss O'Neill finds Swan Down delicate and smooth.

Simple ways to keep your skin looking always soft and natural:

Don't use too light a powder. Swan Down is made in five shades to suit every possible variation of skin colouring. Cream, Flesh, White and Brunette.

If you prefer a light powder, apply a thin cream with smooth it so the powder will go on invisibly.

Powder carefully and evenly over the whole face. Powdered over the face and not other parts gives a shiny appearance.

Nature's Offering

THE gifts of Nature are given generously. Every year the orchards yield their harvest of delicious fruits. And creamy Cerebos Custard will bring the flavour of the fruit to the perfection it deserves.

Fresh Fruit and Cerebos Custard

A Cerebos Purity Product

Don't wait until you are so grey that a sudden change back to brown or black will be noticed. Apply VALENTINE'S EXTRACT to those grey hairs NOW, and so keep the youthful colour for as many years as you wish. VALENTINE'S EXTRACT is clean, easy and pleasant to use, harmless and odourless.

Of Chemists, 1/3, 2d and 6d or post free secretly packed from L. F. Valentine, 46A, Holborn Viaduct, London, E.C.1.

VALENTINE'S EXTRACT
WALNUT STAIN

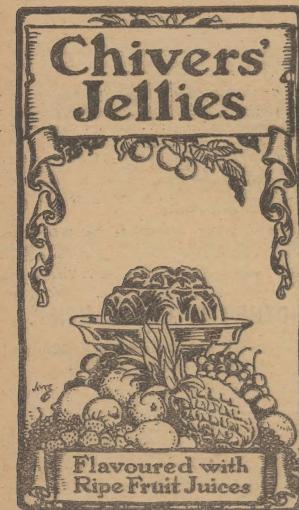

An indispensable adjunct of the table. Convenient, economical, and far more hygienic than paper napkins. Many in many artistic designs—printed in fast colours—or in plain white. Provide one for each of your guests at afternoon tea, garden parties, picnics, motor trips, etc.

Ask Your Stationer for DENNISON'S
CREPE PAPER SERVIETTES

FREE—Write for sample, and ask for Dennison's Handy Book 76 pages of useful information.

Dennison's Manufacturing Co. Ltd.
Dept. 15—52, KINGSWAY, LONDON, W.C.2

Delicious, Wholesome, Refreshing.

The favourite table sweet for over a quarter of a century.

ARTICLES FOR DISPOSAL.
BABY Cars from factory on approval; carriage paid: no other payment; lowest price for cash or easy payments; write for our catalogue post free and save money—Godiva Carriage Co. (Dept. 35). Coventry.

MISCELLANEOUS.
Rate: 2s. 6d. per line; minimum: 2 lines.
Are you fat? Nature's only remedy, Thinz Tablets, in plain wrapper. Post free—2d.—Thinz Co. Ltd., Lambert House, 10, Finsbury, E.C.2.—
BEEF Wine—2d. Bees: full directions for wine-making. 2s. 6d. per Scott, 92, Finsbury, E.C.2.—
COCOON'S Rest. 2s. 6d. Dinner: Picnic: luncheon: 2s. dinner 3s.; best food, wonderful decorations. SMALL Ball Room, Parquet Floor: excellent band: 9.12. 32, Finsbury, E.C.2.—
WHITE "Verbena" 2s. for dry skin, coarse pore and cleansing cream: 2s. 6d. and 4s. 9d. a vase; also skin tonic and powder lotions, 3s. 6d. a bottle.—204, Holland St., W.1.

LADIES' MIRROR

MAGIC RIBBONS—PARTY FROCKS FOR CHILDREN.

UNCRUSHABLE ribbons are now a feature of the newest undies. You may gather them up in your hand and scrunch them as hard as you like, not that there is any particular reason for doing so, but it's nice to know you can—and then smooth them down with your finger and they will immediately look newer than new.

FOR CHILDREN.

Such delicious seaside and country hats for children are being sold, light mushroom shapes of ordinary hard-wearing rush straw, bound in colour and decorated with the quaintest birds made out of coloured raffia. Children adore them.

GARDEN PARTY DAYS.

In my pet children's shop I was shown some dainty models destined for juvenile garden party days—little handfuls of flesh-pink georgette, with pin-tucks all the way down from neck to hem, interspersed with lines of rosebuds fashioned from the material. And for older linky kids delicious cool washing frocks of white crepe made in the slip-on chemise style tied at the waist in a wide coloured silk hanky.

RIBBONS.

Very, very wide picot-edged ribbon is being used to trim sports hats—either encircling the crown and tying into a loose floppy bow or made into cheery little cockades at one side. The hats themselves are small and basin-like of the finest straw.

Hats are as varied as the faces beneath them, and those shaded by tulle or veiling are especially flattering to the wearer.

A smart walking coat is an indispensable addition to every smart little girl's wardrobe.—(Poulain.)

"TIZ"—A joy to Sore, Tired Feet

Relief! The very first application of TIZ brings instant comfort to those tired, aching, burning, perspiring feet. You can walk, run or dance as much as you like at once with perfect freedom and ease without any shoe tightness or limping with pain.

TIZ is the original and only medicinal remedy which gently draws out through the skin pores the poisonous matter which causes the feet to swell, throb and ache.

TIZ converts sore, burning, swollen, tired feet into fresh, happy, natural feet. There is nothing to equal TIZ, and so easy and cheap to use, so certain in relief and cure of all foot troubles, including corns, bunions and blisters.

Be sure to get the genuine TIZ, the only foot remedy in the yellow box bearing the Government medicine stamp. 1s. 3d. per liberal size box, at all chemists or stores. W. L. DODGE, Ltd., Barnes, S.W.13.

By Appointment.

SEND YOUR COSTUMES TO PULLARS

PULLARS Processes enable them to clean and freshen costumes and skirts of any material without risk of injury to the cloth. All stains and spots removed and minor repairs executed.

Send to any Pullar Branch or Agency, or post direct to Perth, these or cleaning and drying expenses. Pullars advise of the cost of cleaning and your return postage.

Pullars of Perth
CLEANERS & DYERS

The Soap to keep your Skin Soft and Smooth

The delightful thing about Snowfire Soap is the way it soothes the skin. This is because it is not only free from excess of oil, but also contains special emollient properties. Everything's skin, from baby upwards, is better for the regular use of Snowfire Soap—the soap that soothes.

6d. per Tablet

Snowfire
SOAP

For chapped and roughened hands use Snowfire Tablet after washing. For preserving the complexion Snowfire Cream—non-greasy.

ARE YOU NERVOUS, TIMIDITY, BLUSHING?
DO YOU OFTEN STAY AT HOME

—and think how you would like to meet people, go to social gatherings, and yet remain embarrassed and frightened by what dreary self-consciousness, Shyness, Blushing? A fatal handicap if you are ambitious. STOP! NOW is your opportunity to get the secret—Simple Home Cure in 7 Days for ALL Nerve and Heart Weakness, Palpitating, Blushing, Trembling, Nervousness, and Grief, Fright, Nervousness, Depression. The Cure is very simple. No anti-suggestion or drill. Write to-day, for full particulars will be sent free privately if you mention "Daily Mirror." E. M. DEAN, 12, All Saints Rd., St. Annes-on-Sea.

BOURNVILLE COCOA

For Economy
1/2 per 1 lb
1 1/2 per 2 1/2 lb
1 1/2 per 2 1/2 lb
1 1/2 per 2 1/2 lb

HOW TO MAKE DELICIOUS DRINKING CHOCOLATE WITH BOURNVILLE COCOA

For a large cup put into a saucepan a level dessert-spoonful of Cocoa and an equal amount of sugar (or more to taste) with half a cup of water. When BOILING add half a cup of cold milk. BOIL again for one minute. Whisk, and serve hot.

See the name CADBURY on every piece of Chocolate

Spotless Gas Stoves for 1d. a week

That is all it costs to clean the inside and out of your gas-cooker thoroughly once a week with OVEN-O, and it is done as easily as washing dishes. It beats everything for removing grease. Buy a tin to-day.

And making gas stoves spotless is only one of the uses of OVEN-O. See how it gets grease and burnt fat off meat tins, cake tins, pie dishes, or any other utensil. It's the best thing we know for cleaning the black deposits off kettles and saucepans; keep them clean with OVEN-O, they will boil quicker and reduce your gas bills.

OVEN-O is recommended by the Richmond Gas Stove and Meter Co. Ltd., the leading makers of gas cookers, and the Anglo-American Oil Co. Ltd., makers of the famous Valor-Perfector Oil Stoves and Heaters.

Of all Stores, Druggists, Grocers, Oilmen, and Gas Companies. If remittable, send 8d. for trial tin post free to the Manufacturers (Makers also of Lysene and Bumbo Hand Soap).

6d. & 1/- per tin.

HUGH McREA, Ltd., Great Northern House, 345, Gray's Inn Road, W.C.1.

PHAROS TOO GOOD FOR TRANQUIL IN DERBY TRIAL

Royal Victory for Knight of the Garter.

L'AIGLON AGAIN.

Peter Rush Wins the Somerset Stakes at Bath.

A classic trial of great importance took place yesterday at Newmarket, when Mr. Lambton tried Lord Derby's pair, Pharos, the colt, and Tranquil, the filly, and subsequently decided that Pharos would represent the stable in the Derby and Tranquil in the Oaks. Weather was more propitious yesterday, and cricket and lawn tennis were for the most part played under delightful conditions. Chief features of yesterday's sport were—Racing.—Knight of the Garter won the Eglington Stakes for the King at York and L'Aiglon scored in Lord Lascelles' colours in the Maiton Sweepstakes. At Bath Peter Rush was successful in the Somersetshire Stakes.

Cricket.—Bowlers had the best of matters generally. The brightest performances were the capture of seven Kent wickets by Parkin for 24 runs and the taking of six Gloucester wickets by Geary, of Leicester, for 13.

TRANQUIL FOR THE OAKS.

Prospects for Concluding Stage of York Meeting.

By BOUVERIE.

Of much greater interest than yesterday's racing at York and Bath was the trial gallop of Lord Derby's classic candidates at Newmarket, which resulted in Tranquil finishing behind Pharos, and the decision that the filly shall miss the Derby to be fresh for the Oaks.

With Torlona and Plas Newydd to bring them along for the first mile, the pair went the

Herbert Jones, who was successful as Knight of the Garter and L'Aiglon yesterday

Makepeace, of Lancashire, who played a fine innings against Kent at Gravesend.

ROYAL DAY AT YORK.

H. Jones on Two Winners—Jazz Band's Surprise in Rockingham Handicap.

A victory for the King's colt, Knight of the Garter, following another success for Lord Lascelles' smart youngster, L'Aiglon, made it a memorable day's racing at York yesterday.

With the city en fete in view of the Prince of Wales' visit to-day there was quite a holiday spirit abroad, and the big crowd gave Princess Mary a standing ovation when Lord Lascelles, who was to meet L'Aiglon on his return, was winning enclosure.

L'Aiglon was always favourite for the Maiton Sweepstakes and although Knight of the Garter had eleven rivals in the Eglington Stakes few backers would look beyond the bearer of the King's jacket.

For a first appearance on a racecourse the colt had a very smooth performance. As on L'Aiglon, Herbert Jones, who had a quiet run, was in the start, and there was never any doubt about the result after the horses had gone four furlongs.

Mr. Adam Scott nearly brought off one of his surprises at the Craven Handicap with Dream Girl, and did the trick properly in the Rockingham Handicap.

JAZZ BAND SETS THE PACE.

After leading for most of the way Dream Girl was caught in the last stride by Flammite. Jazz Band on the other hand, stayed in front to the end in the Rockingham Handicap, while his better-backed stable companion, Weatheride, could never go the pace.

Flint Jack, fully recovered from his Chester Cup injury, was still, and so did Perfectus, who beat all save the winner.

Olive Bell was too good for Indulgence in the Melrose Handicap, and a Stavropol upset Paxton in the Apparition Plate, it was not exactly a great day for the majority.

Broken F's effort to win the Somerset Stakes for the second year in succession ended in failure at Bath, and that nice prize went to Mr. A. P. Cunliffe by the aid of Peter Rush.

BOUVERIE.

HONOURS EASY.
Great Britain and Belgium Each Win Once in Davis Cup.

Singles in the Davis Cup match were played yesterday. R. Lycott (Great Britain) was drawn against Georges Watson (Belgium) and J. B. Gilbert against E. B. Clegg (Belgium).

In his match Lycott displayed a capital form and won by three straight sets. The first and third he took quite comfortably at 6-2, but four games were played in the second set, Lycott winning even that.

The home country levelled matters in the next match, Washer recording a Belgian victory over J. B. Gilbert, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

ATHLETICS AND CYCLING.

Hall's Successful Attack on Mile Motor-Faced Record.

At the National Cyclists' Union's meeting at Herne Hill yesterday Tom Hall succeeded in establishing new figures for the one mile motor-paced record, the new time being 1m. 37s., which is 2s. faster than Hall's own record established on May 6.

W. J. Bailey failed to beat the professional quarter-mile record from a flying start, and H. G. B. Gilbert was also unsuccessful in his attempt to beat the quarter-mile (standing start) record for tricycles.

C. L. Steyn, the Hall's professional three-quarter back in the Guy's Hospital football team, won the 100 yards sprint race at the home sport yesterday at Honor Oak, in 10.3-5s., the furlong in 22.4-5s. with the quarter-mile in 54.5-5s., and the long jump with 19ft. 11in. recorded his fourth victory in the "Lure Cup" competition.

L. G. Holden scored a double victory, taking the mile scratch in 4m. 61s. and the three miles scratch in 16m. 37.2-5s.

In a series of athletic events at Paddington Recreation Ground, Polytechnic Harriers beat University of London A.C. by 351 points to 281. Each side won four events, H. B. Stoddard securing the half-mile for U.L.A.C.

FOR AMATEUR CLUBS.

Proposed Parliamentary Action to Help Sports Bodies.

Amateur sports clubs throughout the country are hoping that the efforts to get the entertainment tax modified may yet meet with success.

The following members of Parliament—Captain A. R. St. John, Mr. J. H. D. Clegg, Mr. J. H. D. Clegg, and Mr. J. H. D. Clegg—will be present at the next Committee stage of the Finance (New Duties) Act, 1916, shall be read and construed as follows: "Provided that this section shall not apply to amateur sports-clubs whose whole income is devoted to the promotion of games, athletic exercises or physical recreation, and no profit or surplus is distributed."

LATEST DERBY PRICES.—4 Town Guard, 100-14 Phiaros, 17-2 Ellangowan, 10 Papryus, 100-8 My Lord, 15 Legality, 20 Knockando, 25 Twelve Dolor, 20 St. Swithin and Bold and Bad, 100-3 Roger de

NORTH V. SOUTH.

Novel Golf Contest To Be Played After the Championship.

Though the championship at Deal did not support the view that provincial golfers do not receive sufficient recognition in the national teams, the move which has been made to bring them into greater prominence is a good one, and understand that after the open championship at Troon teams representing the North and the South are to meet on the Hopwood Course, Manchester.

The teams are to be twelve aside, and their selection is to be confined to players who have an English qualification.

E. W. E. Holderness was approached to get the Southern side whilst he was still champion and agreed to do so. Unfortunately neither Roger Wetheride nor Cyril Clegg, who were to be his partners, are available, but as they have both decided to devote the rest of the summer to cricket, the team will be a fairly strong one.

Wetheride, among those who have promised to take part in the match are Mr. N. Layton, C. V. L. Hooman, G. L. Mellin, W. A. Powell, Mr. J. A. Evans, Flight Commander C. H. Hay, and Mr. G. Geoffrey MacCallum. The last named is a nineteen-year-old Sonning player who created such a fine impression in winning three rounds in the championship.

F. M. C.

HAGEN IN FRONT.

American Golfers in Tip-top Form at Lytham and St. Annes.

During the first day's play in the Northern professional championship on the Lytham and St. Annes course, Lancashire, yesterday, Americans held a big advantage when the first round of the second hole stroke play competition was through. At the end of the day the leading scores were—

Walter Hagen (U.S.A.), 72; F. Ball (Langley Park); 73; A. J. Hobart (Enfield); 73; T. Walton (Lytham); 73; James Farrell (U.S.A.); 73; James Johnson (U.S.A.); 73; Gene Sarazen (U.S.A.); 74; C. H. Corlett (Dorset); 74; Gus Faulkner (Pembury); 74; S. Wingate (Wearside); 74; and J. Bond (Hillside); 74.

MISS WETHERED SCRATCHES.

Holder Unable to Play in Surrey Golf Championship.

The first and second rounds of the Surrey ladies' championship were carried through at Woking yesterday under delightful conditions.

The scratch record of everybody, Miss J. Wethered (Wandsworth), who was unable to compete, and her opponent, Mrs. Stackleton (Woodcote Park) received a walk-over.

FIRST ROUND RESULTS.

Mrs. Crombie beat Miss G. Bastin 1 up.

Miss E. E. Helme beat Mrs. Knight 4 and 3.

Mr. J. C. Brown beat Miss K. Houghton 3 and 2.

Miss E. E. Helme beat Miss G. Bastin 4 and 3.

Mrs. R. V. K. Finlay beat Miss P. Read 2 and 1.

Mrs. W. H. Ricardo beat Mrs. E. H. Deane 1 up.

Miss Y. Clegg beat Mrs. E. H. Deane 1 up.

Second Round.—Miss Helme beat Miss Crombie 1 hole.

Mrs. Brown beat Mrs. Stackleton 2 and 3; Misses Stuart and Mrs. Finlay 3 and 1; Mrs. Ricardo beat Miss Stuart 3 and 1.

MRS. MALLORY IN ACTION.

American Champion Wins Through to the Last Eight at Chiswick.

A feature of the Middlesex championship meeting, which was continued at Chiswick yesterday morning, when the twenty-two courts were kept full in an endeavour to make up for Tuesday's blank day, was the first American appearance this season of Mrs. Mallory, the American woman champion.

Mrs. Mallory played three matches in the women's singles, and reached the last eight stage. In her second match she lost only one game to Mrs. O'Dwyer, but in the third she came near to losing the second set to Miss F. Barton, the score being 6-1, 6-6.

As the courts were on the opposite side, Mrs. Mallory affected steel points, and against Miss Barton in the second set she had to play on the court where the first set had been played.

Miss Barton, however, was not too accurate in her timing off the ground, Miss Barton drew level at 4-4 by virtue of some steady driving, and led at 6-5 before being beaten 6-5.

As the courts were on the opposite side, Mrs. Mallory affected steel points, and against Miss Barton in the second set she had to play on the court where the first set had been played.

Miss Barton, however, was not too accurate in her timing off the ground, Miss Barton drew level at 4-4 by virtue of some steady driving, and led at 6-5 before being beaten 6-5.

WE HOLD ONE CUP.

U.S. Lacrosse Team to Visit England to Win Back Trophy.

Syracuse University lacrosse team is due to arrive in England on Saturday, and on June 5 begin a tour of England and will play a series of eight matches.

The Syracuse team is the champion lacrosse team of America, and has been sent over to represent the U.S.A. in an attempt to win back a cup that was taken up for competition by prominent New Zealanders for international inter-collegiate lacrosse.

Last year a combined Oxford and Cambridge team went over to America and succeeded in carrying off this trophy, and the object of the visit to England of the Syracuse team is to take this cup back with them.

MRS. MACBETH'S REVENGE.

Miss Doris Chambers, who won the women's golf championship at Burnham a few weeks ago, was yesterday beaten in the final of the Cheshire championship at Wallasey by Mrs. Alan Macbeth, the holder.

Mrs. Macbeth was beaten in the final at Burnham by Miss Chambers, but the latter, after playing well yesterday for thirteen holes, suddenly cracked, and was beaten by 3 up and 2 to play.

THRILLING CRICKET.

Parkin Takes Seven Kent Wickets for 24.

BOWLERS ON TOP.

Better favoured by the weather, the county cricket championship was in full swing throughout the country yesterday, but wickets were tricky and batsmen cautious.

The sensational win by Kent at Gravesend, Lancashire, batted first and made 203, of which 80 were conceded by Makepeace, Kent collapsed woefully against the bowling of Parkin and Hickmott, and were all out for 76.

Yorkshire's bowling strength was displayed at Derby, where the home team were constant in difficult matches. Derby, 101; Roy Kilner and Macaulay each took two wickets very cheaply, Yorkshire, however, found the wicket none too kind, but scored 91 for the loss of four wickets, including batting by Major G. H. Powles for Leicestershire, who had 90 for 100.

In an innings of 30 he hit three sixes and two fours. Leicester made 88, and, thanks to Geary's 81 wickets for 13, got rid of Gloucester for 81.

Gloucester's 100 was a good effort, but Warwickshire found great caution necessary, and scoring was slow, twelve minutes passing in the afternoon without a run being made. Surrey at 141 were within 7 of the Glamorgan total when stumps were drawn at Taunton, and when Warwickshire had scored 132 for 7 at the close.

Whysall and Pavton put Nottingham in a strong position, and Middlesex fared badly, the wickets of H. L. Dales and Hendren being down for 14 at the close.

It was a creditable performance on the part of Middlesex. Derby, 101; Gloucester 81; Surrey, 141 for 7; Taunton 132 for 7; Warwickshire 132 for 11; Gloucester 132 for 11; Nottingham 132 for 11; Middlesex 132 for 11; H. M. Morris 42; Kent 54.

CRICKET SCORE BOARD.

SURREY v. GLAMORGAN—At the Oval.

Gloucester—First Innings: 100; Cook 28, A. E. Gilligan 21. Second Innings: 100; Hobbs 51, G. H. Powles 51. Surrey—First Innings: 141 for 7; Hobbs 57; Ducat 54.

KENT v. LANCASHIRE—At Gravesend.

Lancashire—First Innings: 203; Makepeace 80, Tyldesley 46, Tyldesley 45; Bowring 23. Bowling: Hardinge 5 for 95.

Kent—First Innings: 72; Collins 25. Bowling: Packin 7 for 23, Hickmott 3 for 31.

NOTTS v. MIDDLESEX—At Nottingham.

Gloucester—First Innings: 23; A. W. Carr 21, Whysall 10, Pavton 8; Middlesex 5 for 22; Middlesex—First Innings: 14 for 5; Hobbs 45; Ducat 54.

SOMERSET v. WARWICK—At Taunton.

Warwick—First Innings: 123 for 6; Smith 35, Quale 20, Hobson 18, F. G. Calthorpe 48.

DERBYSHIRE v. YORKS—At Derby.

Derbyshire—First Innings: 104; G. R. Jackson 40. Bowling: Kilner 10 for 3; Macaulay 6 for 22.

Yorkshire—First Innings: 91 for 4; Oldroyd not 27, Kilner 10; R. 23.

GLoucester v. LEICESTER—At Gloucester.

Leicester—First Innings: 88; Monmeney 23, Major G. H. Powles 50. Bowling: Mills 5 for 46, Parker 4 for 21.

Somerset—First Innings: 100; D. Dipper 20, Bloodworth 24. Bowling: Geary 6 for 15.

HANTS v. WEST INDIES—At Southampton.

Hants—First Innings: 143; Madan 64, Newman 22, Bowring: Francis 5 for 27, Brown 2 for 48. Second Innings: 0 for 1.

West Indies—First Innings: 112; M. P. Fernandes 32, Bowring 6 for 58.

OTHER SPORT IN BRIEF.

News Items and Gossip About Men and Matters of the Moment.

Leeds United have secured the services of Johnson, the former member of Wombwell.

Army v. Cambridge.—At Cambridge a cricket team representing the Army made 334 in their first innings (M. B. Burrows 112); the University replied with 300 for 0.

Rowing—Chiswick.—Jimmy Clegg and John Christie, both twenty years old, at the Ring the evening at the Drill Hall, Chiswick Junction, Joe Bloomfield and Sonny Dornan top the bill.

Irish Field Day.—Dr. D. J. McCormack and L. E. Werner yesterday qualified for the final of the Irish close championship at Milltown, Co. Dublin. McCormack beat Eector Munro, the University, and won with 1m. 44-2s.

University.—Bishop's Stortford College at Cambridge yesterday. In a six-aside team race the University won, in 1m. 44-2s. The University also won the water polo match by 2 goals to 0.

Billards for Hospitals.—Tom Newman and Melbourne Hines are matched to play 1,600 up for £20 at Burnham on June 23 at Stamford Bridge. There are several open events in a very long programme, including a three men's team competition with a total value of £100.

Printers' Charities' Sports.—The annual sports of the Printers' Charities' Trust Committee will be held on June 23 at Stamford Bridge. There are several open events in a very long programme, including a three men's team competition with a total value of £100.

Ski to Meet Niles.—It was announced in Paris yesterday (see Reuters) that a contract has been signed at the French Embassy for the 1924 Olympic Games with the former champion of France, E. Marcel Niles. The match will take place on July 8.

Benny Leonard.—Knocked out Jimmy Mitchell, the junior feather-weight, in the first round of a contest at Chelmsford. A free fight followed the decision, and Mitchell jumped into the ring and struck the referee, and the police had to use their clubs to clear the ring.

Boxing—Glasgow.—Tommy Morrison, the English boxer, led the field with an aggregate of 149 for thirty-six holes.

Boxing—Cardiff.—A free fight followed the decision, and Mitchell jumped into the ring and struck the referee, and the police had to use their clubs to clear the ring.

Boxing—Glasgow.—Tommy Morrison, the English boxer, led the field with an aggregate of 149 for thirty-six holes.

Boxing—Birmingham.—Tommy Morrison, the English boxer, led the field with an aggregate of 149 for thirty-six holes.

Boxing—Birmingham.—Tommy Morrison, the English boxer, led the field with an aggregate of 149 for thirty-six holes.

Squeak hears a new tune—

ROYAL COUNTIES SHOW AT SOUTHAMPTON: SPLENDID EXHIBITS OF CATTLE AND SHEEP

Messrs. F. J. Merson and Son's first prize Dorset Horn shearing ram.

The Mayor of Southampton (left), in civic robes, opens the show.

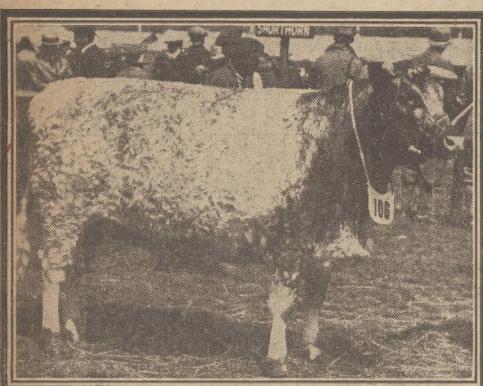

The milking competition. Jersey cows, whose milk is famous.

A judge of the Southdown shearing ewes.

Sir Bernard Greenwell's champion Shorthorn.

The King's champion Shorthorn heifer Windsor Rose II.

The Southampton meeting of the Royal Counties Agricultural Society opened yesterday and continues throughout the week. The show, which is on a large scale, covers a wide range of farming interests, livestock of all kinds, implements and machinery figuring in the catalogue. There are also a number of competitions.—(Daily Mirror photographs.)

The crowd gathers round the ring to see some pretty Jersey cattle.